Courses

Short courses available for healthcare workers looking to up-skill, including overseas nurses and also to support those caring for vulnerable at home.

All course modules are delivered online and is learner driven. There is no maximum time required to complete the set learning hours.

The modules are provided by Kalandra Education Group.

An electronic certificate at the completion of your study can be organised upon request.

Healthcare assistants in New Zealand wishing to upskill, can find NZQA approved programmes available to New Zealand Citizens and Permanent Residents on the Kalandra Education Group's website, at Kalandra.ac.nz

Introduction to Healthcare

$80

This course introduces a carer to the basic skills needed to help someone who requires assistance with daily living. The course covers topics such as communication skills, infection control, bathing, feeding, dementia and moving a person.

Preparation for the annual Practicing Certificate Validation

$100

This course assists the nurse to understand what is required and provides a logical method of preparing the information. It also provides examples of good practice. The portfolio is especially valuable when supplying information for an Audit however it is also an invaluable tool, promoting reflection and improvement of practice.

Precetorship

$100

This course covers everything to do with the preceptor and their purpose of orientating new staff to practice in an effective and culturally safe manner so that they may achieve a competent level in that clinical area. This is a vitally important role, having a lasting impact on that person, affecting retention and more importantly, self-esteem.

Person-centered care practices

$80

The course enables the learner to understand and recognise a person's holistic needs, including incorporating their personal care needs, and how best to meet these. The learner recognises that changes may occur and what to do; how to report these and respond.

Professional expectations

$70

This course explores the role of the carer/ healthcare assistant and what the professional expectations are that may be required, such as acting as an Advocate.

Communication

$70

This course explores the role of the carer/ healthcare assistant and what the professional expectations are that may be required, such as acting as an Advocate.

Introduction to being a volunteer

$40

In this course you will learn about the most important facets of supporting those people who need support in one or more areas of their lives while allowing you to be safe, prevent the spread of infections, communicate effectively, and assist someone in daily tasks like moving and eating.

Mental health in the workplace

$80

This course teaches you about mental health and how to recognise mental distress. It recognises mental distress in the workplace and the ethical and legal responsibility of the employee. It helps to address the problem of mental ill health before it becomes an issue especially in the workplace and in the home.

Dementia for families

$40

This course is designed to give you a basic understanding of dementia, risk factors, types of dementia, warning signs, stages of dementia, challenging behaviours and support groups that are available

Protection of the vulnerable

$80

This course explains vulnerability, the signs of this and what may happen. Abuse of all sorts can occur, and it is important that carers be alert for and recognise this, then know what to do.

Palliative care

$80

This course shares knowledge of specialised practices for palliative care and explores the more common approaches that can be applied. Understanding changes to look for, how to read pain and fear, and providing various comfort cares are described.

Falls

$70

This course enables the learner to understand further information of what, how, why and the impact of a fall and what to do as falls are an incredibly common occurrence especially for our older people and can have serious consequences.

Intellectual disability

$80

This course is designed to provide information on how to understand intellectual disability, diagnostic criteria, prognosis, treatment, related conditions, person-centred care and how intellectual disabilities can affect mental health. Intellectual disability affects a considerable portion of the person's life as well as the family and society.

Introduction to beauty and touch therapy $80

The course is an introductory course which will provide a basic understanding of the internal and external effects of aging on the skin and provide guidance on suitable products and techniques that can be used in caring for the skin.

Skincare and beauty therapy for the older person (professional beautician) $160

The course covers considerations to factor into the beauty regime of the older person. How the human body, skin in particular, ages, along with how and why these impacts on the beauty care that can be provided

Skincare for the elderly $80

This course covers topics related to the ageing skin. From the skin ageing process to common skin diseases and conditions that impact the skin's health and condition, through to what products to use and how we can best treat and look after the ageing skin

Hand and feet care for the older person $70

The course provides information around the positive influence that hand and foot care can have on the physical and emotional wellbeing of the older person while understanding issues and restriction they may face along with beneficial relaxation techniques that may provide pain relief and stress management.

Clinical specialist topics

Short courses available for healthcare workers looking to up-skill, including overseas nurses and also to support those caring for vulnerable at home.

Infection control $60

The aim of infection control is to prevent the transmission of pathogens (bacteria, fungi, viruses and parasites) from person to person.

The ultimate goal is to prevent the spread of infection and disease.

This specialist clinical topic will investigate and explain the importance of infection control

Bed making $60

When making a bed the aim is to ensure that the client / family member will have a clean, comfortable, safe bed.

When beds are made in the correct manner it also ensures that the risk of infection is reduced.

The risk of the client developing pressure injuries will also be reduced as any areas of pressure will be resolved (wrinkled sheets or tangled blankets).

Gain knowledge of making occupied and unoccupied beds like a professional.
